JACQUES HENRI LARTIGUE

by Denis Gaubert

Belle Époque Paris. The favorite pastime of dreamy young Jacques is to photograph his everyday life with a stereoscopic camera that has the power to capture his universe in three dimensions.

From the turn of the century to the Roaring Twenties, the film leafs through a 3D family album, alive with exuberance and unbridled laughter, with many experiences and encounters, through some of which we perceive a slight glimpse of harder times.
